The screenshot shows the 'Kids Search' interface. At the top left is the EBSCO Publishing logo. The main header features the text 'Kids Search' in large orange letters, with 'powered by EBSCOhost' underneath. To the right of the header are links for 'Sign In', 'Folder', 'Settings', 'Help', and 'Exit'. Below the header is a navigation bar with buttons for 'Home', 'Dictionary', 'Encyclopedia', 'Images/Videos', and 'Teacher Resources'. The 'Encyclopedia' button is circled in red. Below the navigation bar, the text 'Funk & Wagnalls New World Encyclopedia' is displayed. A search area contains the text 'Look up:' followed by a white input field, a 'Go' button, and a 'Clear' button. The 'Look up:' text and the 'Go' button are circled in red. Below the search area is a section titled 'About the Database' with an orange header. On the left of this section is an illustration of a girl reading a book. On the right is a text block describing the database's features, including a 'More Info' link.

Click on the Encyclopedia button to browse by entering terms in the Look up field. Information about the Encyclopedia is prominently displayed on the screen.

Abstract:	This article reports that Spirit and Opportunity, NASA's Mars Exploration Rovers, have drilled, dug, and rolled across Mars for more than 1,000 martian days . This is more than 11 times their design lifetimes. Scientists celebrated the feat by directing Spirit's cameras to collect images for its most detailed martian panorama yet.
