

The Press Agents' War: Propaganda and World War I

Guest lecture and book signing by historian David Greenberg

David Greenberg, a professor at Rutgers University, examines how the U.S. government rallied the American public to fight in World War I. After the presentation, Greenberg will sign copies of his latest book, The Republic of Spin: An Inside History of the American Presidency. This presentation is part of Lone Star College's series commemorating the 100-year anniversary of World War I. Sponsored by W.W. Norton and Windows on the World, the event is free.
